Convention Center Hotel Critical to Dallas' Future

We need to move forward with Dallas' convention center hotel. Since announcing our plans to build, seven conventions worth $200 million in revenue have chosen Dallas. Winning convention business significantly expands our tax base by bringing in valuable sales tax.

The hotel will not be financed with general obligation bonds that leave tax payers on the hook. The truth is the hotel will be financed by revenue bonds. That means revenue generated by people using the hotel will pay off the bonds in the same way other cities such as Houston, Denver, Baltimore and Phoenix have funded their hotels.

Each year Dallas is missing out on about $800 million annually in lost revenue to other large cities. And more than 80 groups have said they won't consider Dallas without a convention center hotel.

Let's move forward. If you believe in Dallas' future, support this project and join me in registering your support to "Build The Hotel." Visit www.buildthehotel.com for more information.

Vote! It's Your Voice!

Early voting for the upcoming election ends this Friday, Oct. 31. After that, Tuesday, Nov. 4 will be the last opportunity to make yourself heard.

And don't forget, we are voting for more than the next president. Our own Parkland Hospital has a $747 million bond program on the ballot. This bond program could dramatically improve a vitally-needed, local medical facility, and I urge you to support it. We also have very important state and government races that need your vote.

For more information on voting, visit www.dalcoelections.org
